DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter. The use of a composition is not a statutory subject matter. The claimed recitation of a use, without setting forth any steps involved in the process, results in an improper definition of a process, i.e., results in a claim which is not a proper process claim under 35 U.S.C. 101. See for example Ex parte Dunki, 153 USPQ 678 (Bd.App. 1967) and Clinical Products, Ltd. v. Brenner, 255 F. Supp. 131, 149 USPQ 475 (D.D.C. 1966).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-7 provides for the use of slag, but, since the claim does not set forth any steps involved in the method/process, it is unclear what method/process applicant is intending to encompass. A claim is indefinite where it merely recites a use without any active, positive steps delimiting how this use is actually practiced.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim 8 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by “Products of steel slags an opportunity of save natural resource” to Motz et al.

Regarding Claim 8, Motz et al. disclose in the whole document, a process of aging steel slag by weathering the slag outside the slag pits for a certain time at a free atmosphere to transform the free lime into calcium hydroxide. Slag is also sprayed with water to accelerate the hydration of free lime and MgO. Motz et al. disclose that volume stability and the effect of leaching all affect the long term behavior of contraction.

Claim 8 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by “the development of the new aging process of steel-making slag” to Shigeru et al.

Regarding claim 8, Shigeru et al. disclose a uniformly process of aging slag to be used in road pavement. The slag is processed in a yard. The slag is processed to reduce the volume expansion, which is verified by test. Shovel loader is used in the aging process. Water is used to age the slag. (Whole document)

Conclusion

The references on the 892 are cited as art of interest because they are cumulative or less than the art relied in the rejection above.

Reference AA on the 1449 dated 9/22/05 has not been considered because the IDS does not include a concise explanation of the relevance, as it is presently understood by the individual designated in 37 CFR 1.56(c) most knowledgeable about the content of the information, of each reference listed that is not in the English language. It has been placed in the application file, but the information referred to therein has not been considered.
